1. Frogs and “gray aliens” both have large eyes, and similar facial features.

One webpage says of “gray aliens”, “They are normally between 3 1/2 to 4 feet tall with large heads and black “wrap around” eyes. They have limited facial features, slit mouth and no nose to speak of.” [1] Frogs also have what I would describe as large heads with black “wrap around” eyes. Frogs also have a slit mouth, and no nose to speak of, just a couple of holes. Another report of “gray aliens” describes them as thus, “Their face is dominated by large black eyes, without pupils. They have two nostrils, slit-like mouths and small ears lacking earlobes.” [2] A frog has a slit like mouth, and two nostrils, and their ears also lack lobes.

This is a mock-up, of course, but the typical of how grey aliens are described

Aliens with their almond-shaped eyes are inevitably very “other”-looking

2. Frogs and gray aliens have similar hand and finger structure. Of gray aliens, “Reports of the fingers vary from 3 to 4, long, webbed”. [3] The sketch below is of an alien hand. [4] From Wikipedia on Gray aliens, ” Hand is generally described with four fingers and no thumb with slight webbing between fingers. Two fingers appear longer than the others. Sometimes fingernails are reported.” This sketch of an alien hand is compared to a picture of a frog’s webbed feet, and a diagram of human verses frog skeletal hand structure. Both the hands and feet of most frogs are webbed.

In “Space Travelers and the Genesis of the Human Form”, by Joan D’Arc, she says, “The arms of the alien gray are frail and spindly, and there is a “bend” where the elbow should be. The fingers are long and thin, and generally with rounded pads or bulbs at the end, while some are reported as being tapered at the end. There are usually 4 fingers and a thumb, but sometimes 3 fingers and a thumb are noted.” Frogs also are known for having rounded pads or bulbs on their fingertips. Frog fingers are typically long and thin, and webbed. Below a frog is compared to a sketch by abductee Colin Wright, who sketched a “gray alien’s” hand based on what he saw during his “alien abduction” experience in 1992 with a “gray alien”. The resemblance is striking, note the long fingers and bulbs.

3. Both “gray aliens” and frogs have no distinguishable external genitalia. With both gray aliens and frogs, it is very difficult to distinguish what gender they are, because there are no external genitalia. Wikipedia says of Greys, “Other reports have them appearing to be naked. In most cases, clothed Greys have no determinable gender and naked Greys have no visible external genitals.” Of gray aliens, “No external reproductive genital, possible reproduction by a cloning method.” [5] Frogs also have no visible external genitalia.

4. Frogs and gray aliens both have no hair. “Frogs have no hair.”

[6] Wikipedia says of gray aliens, “Head generally described as hairless, sometimes a slight fuzz. Bodies are hairless.” So both “gray aliens” and frogs are hairless.

And so there are 4 reasons why I think John might have likened the creature he saw in the vision of Revelation, if it was a gray alien, to looking like a frog. Additionally, I do want to add a couple equally strange similarities, going beyond the topic of just appearance:

5. Both frogs and “gray aliens” absorb through their skin.

From Wikipedia, “Greys reportedly absorb food as well as excrete waste through the skin, which makes them emit a foul odor.”

Of frogs, Wikipedia says, “The physiology of frogs is generally like that of other amphibians (and differs from other terrestrial vertebrates) because oxygen can pass through their highly permeable skin. This unique feature allows frogs to “breathe” largely through their skin.”

6. Both frogs and “gray aliens” reproduce through external reproductive means. Grays are said to reproduce their own kind by cloning, which is an external non-mammalian reproductive method which would take place in a lab, and growth would occur in an artificial womb environment. Frogs also reproduce externally, the male and female components issuing out of the body and fertilizing, then growing in an external environment like a pond.
